A desk, a dream, and a quiet corner in Tanzania

Dear all friends,

Walking into the Sigi Foundation School on a Tuesday morning is a sensory experience. You hear the rhythmic sweep of a broom on the porch, the distant clatter of a cooking pot, and—most importantly—the hum of thirty children trying to out-read each other.

For many of our kids, this isn't just a school. It's the only place in their lives where they aren't expected to be laborers or caretakers. It's the only place where they are allowed to just be students.

But we have a problem we can't ignore.

We are excited to share that the Sigi Foundation School has successfully completed the construction of three new classrooms, creating expanded learning space and new opportunities for our growing number of students. While the structures are now in place, the classrooms are not yet ready for use. They still require essential finishing work, including painting, plumbing, electricity, and basic furnishings such as desks, chairs, and teaching materials. To fully open these spaces and welcome students inside, we urgently need additional support to complete this final phase.

With your continued generosity, we can transform these empty rooms into vibrant learning environments and ensure every child not only has a place to learn, but also the nourishment they need to thrive.

We also continue to seek funding to provide daily meals for our children, as consistent nutrition is vital to their health, concentration, and academic success.

We aren't looking for a miracle—just a bit of help from people who believe that a child's zip code shouldn't dictate their destiny.

Could you pull up a chair for one more student?

A gift of 5 USD for a child per day or 150 USD per child for a month will support a child with academic materials, daily meals and clothing.

Your support keeps the lights on and the pencils moving. More than that, it tells these children that someone across the world is rooting for them.

With gratitude,

Sigi Foundation School, Tanzania
